

Lecture Outline 10: Modernist Landscape Design 1960s

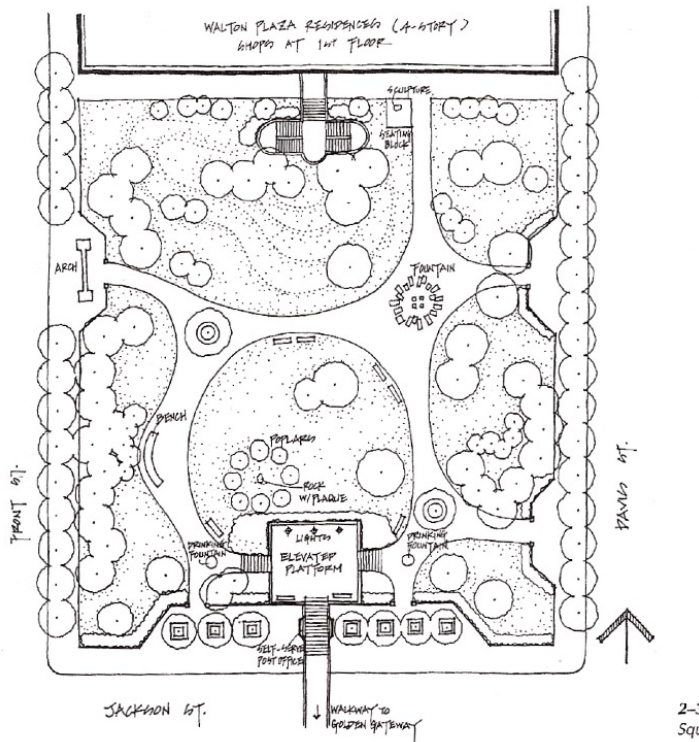

Community Redevelopment Act of 1945 – use of eminent domain to redevelop "blighted" neighborhoods – eg. Western Addition and Golden Gateway in San Francisco

New Types of Downtown Open Spaces

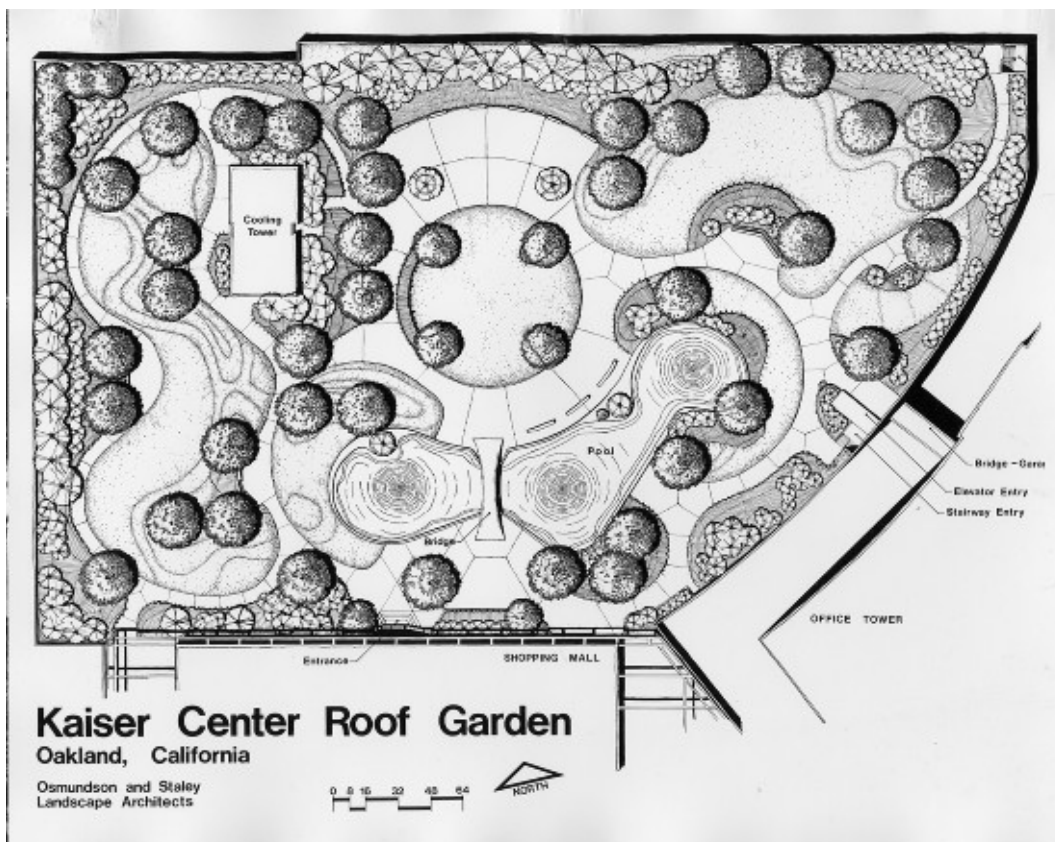

- Sidney Walton Park, San Francisco, CA, 1960 - green square in mixed-use redevelopment district
Sasaki Walker Associates (Peter Walker)
Wurster, Bernardi, Emmons architects
- Independence Mall, Philadelphia, PA, 1954-1963 – redevelopment civic/historic district
Edmund Bacon, urban design
Dan Kiley, landscape architect – original plan
OLIN Partnership (Laurie Olin) – redesign 1997
- Kaiser Center Roof Garden, Oakland, California, 1959 – roof garden (private initiative)
Theodore Osmundson (Osmundson & Staley)
- Paley Park, New York City, 1966 – vest pocket park (private initiative)
Client; William Paley of CBS, Robert Zion & Harold Breen
- Portland Open Space Sequence & Ira's Fountain (Auditorium Forecourt Fountain) Portland, OR, 1965-70 – redevelopment open space
Lawrence Halprin with Angela Danadjieva
- Fresno Mall, Fresno, CA, 1965 – pedestrian mall
Eckbo, Dean, Austin & Williams (Garrett Eckbo)
- Ghirardelli Square, San Francisco, CA, 1962-68 – adaptive re-use (the anti-redevelopment project)
Lawrence Halprin, with Wurster, Bernardi, Edmonds, architects

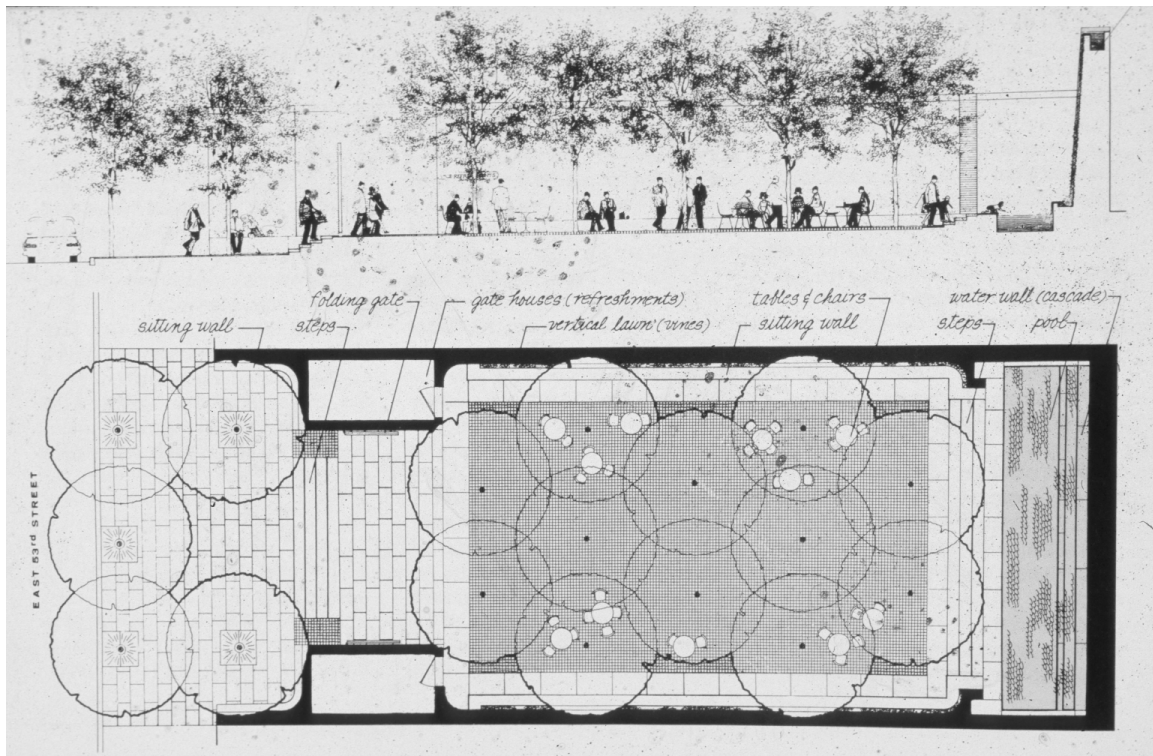

Other sites not covered but of interest

- Lincoln Center, NYC, 1963 – performing arts district
Dan Kiley
- Oakland Museum, 1969 – museum district
Dan Kiley with Geraldine Knight Scott
Kevin Roche and John Dinkeloo architects – museum district

Sidney Walton Park, San Francisco, CA

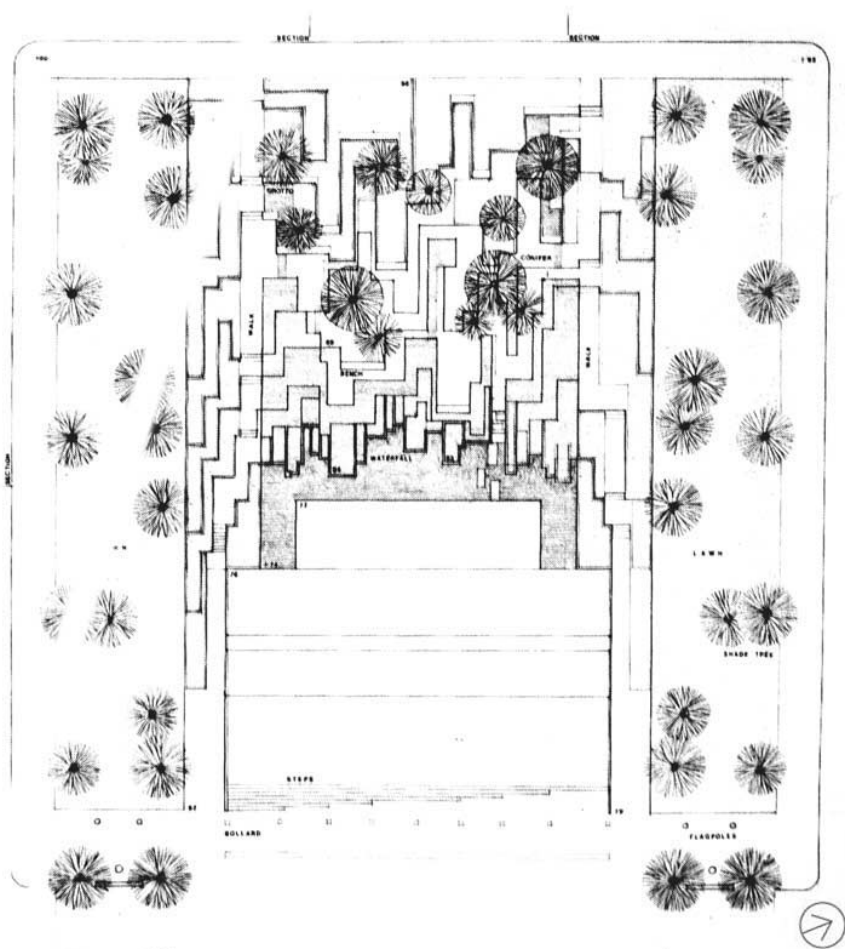

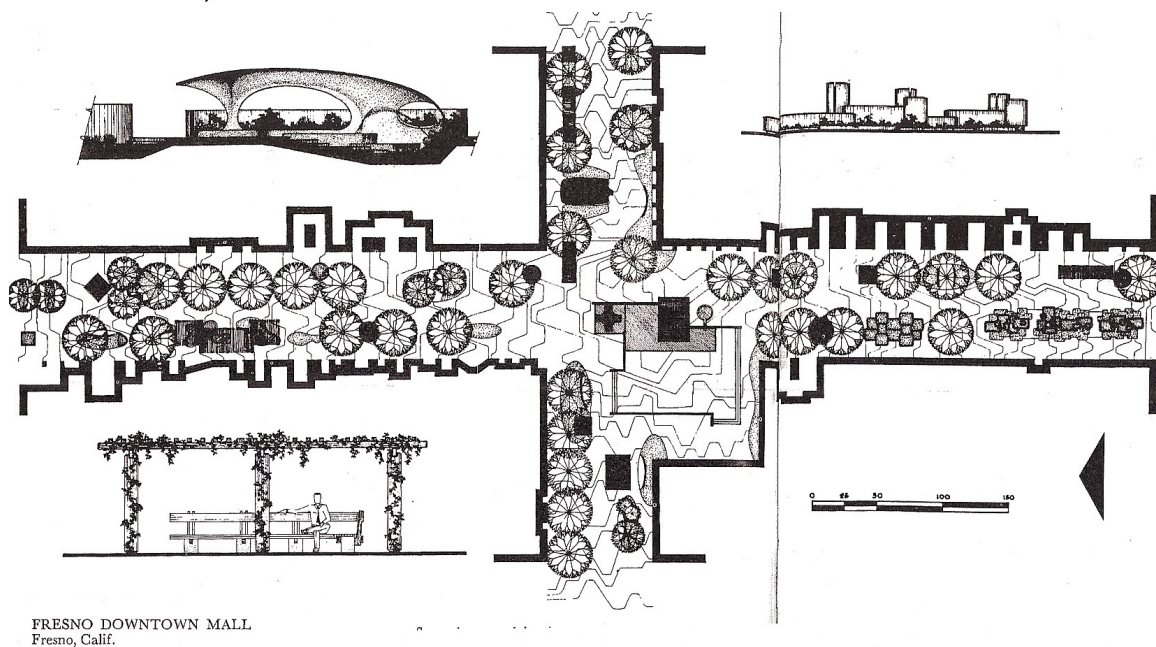

Paley Park, New York City, 1966

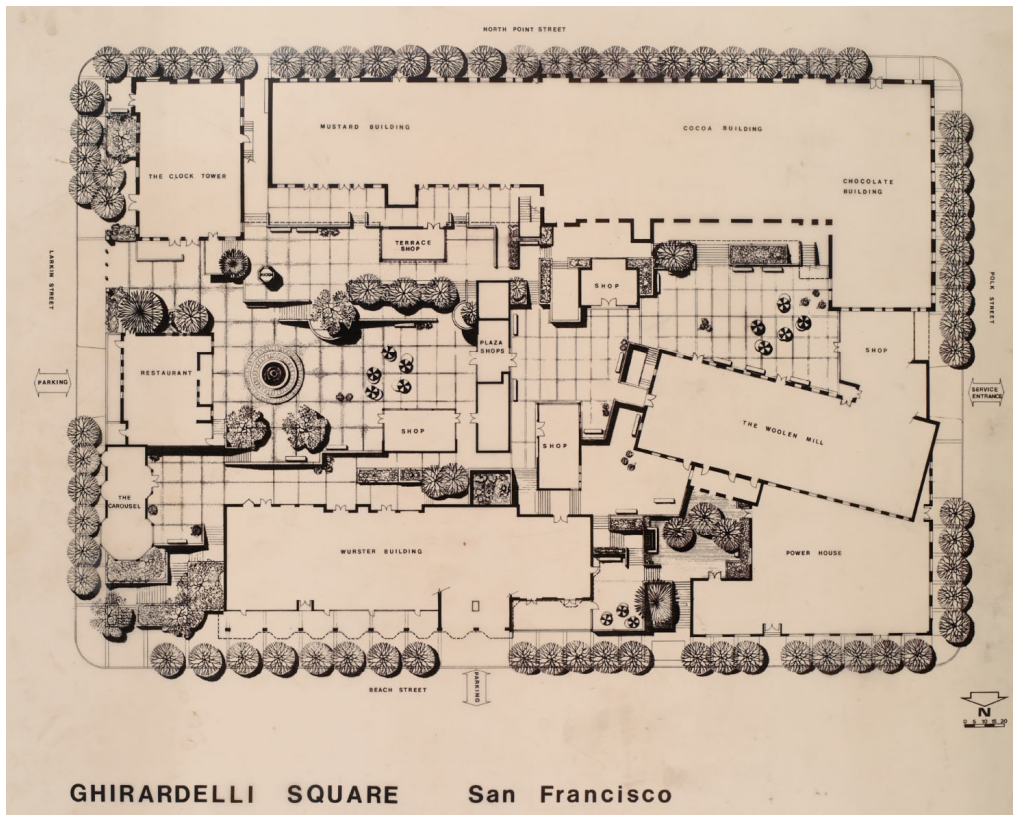

Portland Open Space Sequence, 1965-70, Ira's Fountain, Pettigrove Park, & Lovejoy Plaza

Ira's Fountain, 1965-70

Fresno Mall, 1965

Ghirardelli Square, San Francisco, CA, 1962-68